We are pleased to acknowledge the Visible Knowledge Project and its director, Professor Randy Bass of Georgetown University, for providing the funding that permitted the initiation of In Transit. We are most grateful to President Gail O. Mellow of LaGuardia Community College for her leadership in recognizing the value of the scholarship of teaching and learning and for providing crucial funds needed to sustain In Transit.
Acknowledgements

In Transit is a community project, its labors and rewards shared by a wide circle of writers, readers, copy editors, printers, and well-wishers from across our campus. The current issue’s longer, research-focused articles required unwavering contributions of time and expertise from our community, and we are immensely grateful to the colleagues and friends who have encouraged and kept pace with In Transit’s evolving identity. We wish to thank the peer readers listed below for commenting upon first versions of the papers on the theme of reflection. We are indebted to the LaGuardia Library for research assistance, and to Louise Fluk for clarity of mind and word, and we thank Roslyn Orgel of LaGuardia’s Center for Teaching and Learning for coordinating all phases of production. Despite the emphasis placed on evidence-based learning and visible knowledge, the actual experience of learning is often interior and elusive. To the writers who have contributed boundless energy to finding the clearest ways to capture changes and progress in teaching and learning, we express our boundless gratitude. Their patience in the face of our persistent questions has been extraordinary.

2009 Peer Readers

Gordon Crandall
Mathematics, Engineering, and Computer Science

Mercedes del Rosario
LaGuardia Center for Teaching and Learning

Sarah Durand
Natural Sciences

Robert Durfey
Counseling

Francine Egger-Sider
Library

Debra Engel
Health Sciences

Thomas Fink
English

Ximena Gallardo
English

Jack Gantzer
Education and Language Acquisition

Unn Hidle
Health Sciences

Carlos Hiraldo
English

Elizabeth Iannotti
The English Language Center

Mitchell Levy
Counseling

Roslyn Orgel
LaGuardia Center for Teaching and Learning

Shara Sand
Social Science

David Styler
English

Phyllis van Slyck
English

Frank Wang
Mathematics, Engineering, and Computer Science

Francine White
Cooperative Education

Shenglan Yuan
Mathematics, Engineering, and Computer Science